

2020

SAVA ANNUAL REPORT

2020 was a year unlike any we have ever encountered before. The COVID-19 pandemic changed life as we knew it. SAVA, like so many other organizations, faced tremendous challenges in learning how to maintain safety while continuing to serve survivors of sexual violence and their loved ones. Our daily routines changed overnight and instead of greeting clients when they came in the front door, we saw them on screens from our home offices. Prevention programs came to an abrupt halt when schools closed, and student education resumed virtually.

Despite these challenges, SAVA found a way to meet the needs of clients and Colorado youth. SAVA staff worked diligently to prepare for a safe return to the office. New protocols were put into place and upon returning to our offices, sanitizing became a top priority each day. The full staff returned to the SAVA offices in May and faced a new normal of wearing masks and taking temperatures. Prevention programming was adapted to be facilitated virtually, allowing youth to continue receiving vital information and resources.

SAVA was able to maintain our critical services due to the commitment of the staff and the support from the community. We are pleased to report that we were able to reach 1,044 individuals through our advocacy and therapy services and over 4,000 students throughout Larimer and Weld Counties. SAVA is dedicated to reaching all those impacted by sexual violence and by continuously working to eradicate the prevalence of sexual violence in our community. Thank you to all of those who have continued to support SAVA in the face of the personal and professional struggles we have all faced in 2020. We could not do this vital work without you.

NADIA

“Nadia” contacted SAVA after her child disclosed being assaulted by her father, Nadia’s husband. SAVA helped support Nadia and her daughter through the criminal justice process and got them both involved in therapy services at our Greeley location. While in therapy, Nadia disclosed that she had her own past experiences with sexual assault, and that she was really struggling to cope with her own feelings, as well as supporting her daughter. After participating in individual therapy for several months, Nadia decided to join one of SAVA’s support groups. The combination of individual and group therapy, as well as her daughter’s progress in play therapy, helped Nadia to find healing and support in navigating her trauma.

TIM

SAVA received a hotline call from a young man named “Tim,” who disclosed that he had been bullied and sexually assaulted by some older boys while at a party over the summer. Tim described feeling really embarrassed and that he was struggling with thoughts of self-harm. Because Tim is a minor, SAVA staff were required to make a report to law enforcement about what Tim had experienced. Advocates helped explain the process, and went with him to his police report. Tim also decided he wanted to work with a SAVA therapist, so he could help address the trauma he was experiencing. After working with SAVA advocates and starting therapy, Tim reported feeling less alone and feeling more hopeful about his future.
